CURRENT ACADEMIC APPOINTMENT

Associate Professor 2019-present
Human Development and Family Studies Department
College of Human Sciences
Auburn University, Auburn, AL

PAST ACADEMIC APPOINTMENTS

Assistant Professor at Auburn University 2014-2019
Department of Human Development and Family Studies, Auburn, AL
Post-Doctoral Research Associate at University of Minnesota 2012-2014
Department of Psychology, Minnesota Center for Twin and Family Research,
Minneapolis, MN
Adjunct Professor at St. Catherine University 2013-2014
Department of Psychology, St. Paul, MN

EDUCATION

Ph.D., University of Minnesota – Minneapolis – St. Paul, MN 2009-2012
Major field: Family Social Science
Supporting program: Psychology
M.A., University of Minnesota – Minneapolis – St. Paul, MN 2007-2009
Major field: Family Social Science
B.A., University of Minnesota – Minneapolis – St. Paul, MN 2002-2006
Summa cum laude
Major field: Psychology

RESEARCH INTERESTS

- Adolescent and young adult development
- Alcohol and substance use
- Externalizing and internalizing behaviors and disorders
- Gene-environment interplay
- Individual difference-social context interplay
- Parenting, peer, sibling, romantic relationships
- Personality, individual differences, and behavior genetics
- Risk, protective, and resilience factors

TEACHING INTERESTS

- Child, adolescent, adult development
- Research methods and basic statistics
- Teaching in higher education

RESEARCH SUPPORT & GRANTSMANSHIP

Current Funding

NIH-NIAAA R03 AA024282 08/01/16-08/01/19 (no cost extension)

National Institutes on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism

R03 (small grant) mechanism ($148,000 total costs)

PI: Samek, D.R.

Title: Persistence of Alcohol Use Disorders: Person and Environment Effects

Description: A secondary data analysis of the Minnesota Twin Family Study ($N = 2,769$) is proposed to evaluate for complex processes of individual-social context interplay as it relates to substance use disorder onset and course from adolescence through late young adulthood. A 6-wave data set will be used, with comprehensive assessments of personality, substance use, and social context at each time point.

AAES Enabling Grant

10/02/2018-06/01/2019

Auburn University ($5,000 total costs)

PI: Samek, D.R.

Title: College Experiences Study

Description: The primary purpose of this grant is help the PI address specific review panel comments and make the necessary corrections needed to resubmit the AAES Agr-Seed Grant Award (submitted June, 2018) by generating preliminary data to better position the PI's investigative ideas for future external funding opportunities, conduct research activities aimed at improving the PI's chances of success upon resubmission, or active pursuit of other external funding opportunities.

Completed

AAES Young Investigator Research Support Award 10/01/15-10/01/2017

Auburn University ($50,000 total costs).

PI: Samek, D.R.

Title: College Experiences Leading to Alcohol and Cannabis Use Disorder Onset, Persistence, and Desistence: A Longitudinal Study

Description: The purpose of this two-wave longitudinal study is to evaluate complex processes of individual-social context interplay as it relates to substance use disorder onset and course over the first two years of college. A secondary purpose is to identify whether findings vary for those from rural versus urban regions of origin.

NIH-NIMH T32 MH017069

2012-2013

University of Minnesota, Department of Psychology

National Institute of Mental Health Post-Doctoral Fellowship (~$45,000 total costs)

PI: Dr. Monica Luciana

Title: Neurobehavioral Aspects of Personality and Psychopathology

Role: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

University of Minnesota, Department of Family Social Science 2011-2012

Mary Ellen McFarland Dissertation Award Recipient (tuition + stipend)

University of Minnesota, Department of Family Social Science 2009-2011

Waller Fellowships ($5,000 each year; $15,000 total)

Awarded for aggressive summer research.

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Assistant Professor

Department of Human Development and Family Studies, Auburn University, Auburn, AL
2014-present

Graduate Seminars taught:

- HDFS 7010: Child and Adolescent Development in Context (3 credits)
 - Developed syllabus and course materials on the topic of child and adolescent development, facilitated graduate student learning through active reading, discussion, critical review of theory, methods, and key research findings
 - Students evaluated on weekly critical essays, a semester-long literature review paper (broken into multiple assignments with lots of scaffolding and in class paper workshops), and weekly participation/discussion
 - Average teaching evaluation score = 5.7 on a scale 1 to 6, where 1 indicates low quality teaching and 6 indicates high quality teaching)
 - Fall, 2018 average = 5.7 (13 students)
 - Fall, 2017 average = 5.7 (11 students)
 - Spring, 2017 average = 5.8 (5 students)
 - Spring, 2016 average = 5.6 (4 students)
- HDFS 7900: Directed Studies
 - Mentored graduate student research experience in my Adolescent and Young Adult Development lab
 - Students prepare agenda for weekly meetings breaking down larger goals (e.g., training Undergraduate Research Assistants, extracting data, weekly online survey reports, SPSS and Mplus syntax writing, statistical analysis, paper publications) to yearly, monthly, weekly, and sometimes daily goals, then report on those goals at our weekly or bi-monthly meetings
 - Fall, 2017 through Spring, 2018 (1 student, 6 credits: Lucy Riley)
- HDFS 7990: Research and Thesis
 - Mentored graduate student Master's thesis proposal and writing
 - Students prepare agenda for weekly meetings breaking down larger goals (e.g., preparing first draft of intro through passing thesis proposal, written thesis, and defense) to yearly, monthly, weekly, and sometimes daily goals, then report on those goals at our weekly or bi-monthly meetings
 - Summer, 2017 through Spring, 2018 (1 student, 4 credits: Lucy Riley)
- HDFS 8990: Research and Dissertation
 - Mentored graduate student qualifying exam and dissertation writing
 - Students prepare agenda for weekly meetings breaking down larger goals (e.g., passing qualifying exam) to yearly, monthly, weekly, and sometimes daily goals, then report on those goals at our weekly or bi-monthly meetings
 - Summer, 2015 through Summer, 2017 (1 student, 10 credits: Rebecca Goodman)

Undergraduate courses taught:

- HDFS 3030: Adolescent Development in the Family (3 credits)

- Developed syllabus and course materials on the topic of adolescent and young adult development, facilitated class instruction (e.g., lecture, active learning assignments, discussions)
- Students evaluated on unit quizzes (multiple choice, short answer essay), in-class assignments, reading assignments, and a final literature review paper (broken into multiple assignments with lots of scaffolding and in class paper workshops)
 - Average teaching evaluation score = 5.6 on a scale 1 to 6, where 1 indicates low quality teaching and 6 indicates high quality teaching)
 - Fall, 2018 average = 5.8 (76 students)
 - Spring, 2018 average = 5.8 (56 students)
 - Fall, 2016 average = 5.4 (48 students)
 - Fall, 2015 average 5.8 (48 students)
 - Spring, 2015 average = 5.1 (41 students)
- HDFS 3980/4980: Undergraduate Research and Study/Advanced Undergraduate Research in Human Development and Family Studies
 - Supervised students in my Adolescent and Young Adult Development lab
 - Students evaluated on weekly task completion for the College Experiences Study, including participant location and recruitment, preparing compensation reports, individualized personality feedback, attendance to lab meetings, journal entries, and summarizing and leading research article discussions relevant to the work we are doing in the lab
 - For HDFS 4980*, students complete the former as well as a research paper that includes a literature review and analysis of data collected from the College Experiences Study and discussion of how the findings expand on prior research.
